1994 In Review

For once I'm actually getting this card put together early, so I only have 11 months of 1994 on which to report. I'm still in graduate school, a situation I hope to remedy some time in 1995. By this time next year, I should be telling you where in the country I found a job. Academic highlights of the year include presenting a paper at an April conference in Boston, and serving on a panel at a workshop in England. Much work lies ahead for the coming year, but the goal seems finally in sight!

Roy has had his best year in some time. He finally seems completely over the surgery he underwent in 1992. We went to several dressage shows, and received scores in the 60% range (quite respectable for a 25 year old horse). We also got dressed up for a medieval re-enactment, as evidenced by the cover of this card.

My address remains the same for the rest of my time in Madison:

1220 Drake Street, Madison, WI 53715-1630, (608) 257-6028
