

Manfred The Murderer

Don Hatch
Xmas 2002

Deeply and mournfully

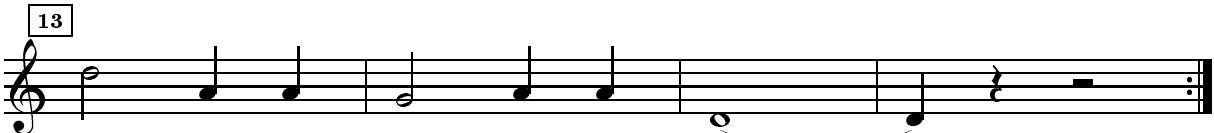

1. Man - fred the mur - der - er, the mur - der - er of kale. We
2. Man - fred the mur - der - er, the mur - der - er of trees. We
3. Man - fred the mur - der - er, the mur - der - er of lights. He
4. Man - fred the mur - der - er, the mur - der - er of fishes. He 5. Man - fred the mur - der - er, the mur - der - er of potatoes. He tried to tell him not to, but it was to no a - vail. He tried to tell him not to; we said "Do not do that please!" But he hung them on the Christ-mas tree at just the per - fect height. But he mur-dured all the fishes, 'cause he said they're so de - licious. He mur-dured all the potatoes and he mur-dured all the tomatoes. He mur-dered all the kale, and he put it in a pail. In a mur-dured all the trees, and he fed them to the bees. To the screwed them in too tight, and now it's dark as night. Dark as mur-dured all the fishes, and he served them up in dishes. That was mur-dured all the tomatoes and he ran off to Bar - bados. To Bar -
